Paris- Must try dishes

- Ratatouille – A Provençal vegetable stew made with eggplant, zucchini, peppers, and tomatoes. Best tried at a traditional bistro or brasserie.
- Soupe à l'Oignon (French Onion Soup) – Traditionally topped with melted cheese and baguette croutons; ask for a vegetarian broth base (many restaurants will accommodate).
- Quiche aux Légumes – A savory tart with seasonal vegetables, cream, and cheese.
- Salade de Chèvre Chaud – Warm goat cheese salad, often served with honey and walnuts on crisp lettuce.
- Tarte Tatin aux Légumes – A creative savory spin on the classic upside-down tart, often featuring caramelized onions or tomatoes.
- Crêpes au Fromage ou aux Champignons – Savory buckwheat crêpes filled with cheese, mushrooms, or spinach.
- Coq au Vin – Chicken slow-cooked in red wine with mushrooms and onions (a Burgundy classic).
- Poulet Rôti – Simple yet iconic French roast chicken, often served with herbed potatoes.
- Poulet à la Crème et aux Champignons – Chicken in a creamy mushroom sauce, a specialty of Burgundy.
- Duck Magret (Canard) – While duck is common in France, opt for magret de canard aux fruits rouges (duck breast with berry sauce) for a refined poultry option.
- Vol-au-Vent au Poulet – Puff pastry filled with creamy chicken and mushrooms.
- Moules Marinières – Mussels steamed in white wine, garlic, parsley, and shallots; often served with fries.
- Bouillabaisse (Parisian Style) – Traditional fish stew from Marseille, but many Paris brasseries serve it with fresh local seafood.
- Filet de Sole Meunière – Sole pan-fried in butter and lemon, light yet indulgent.
- Salmon Gravlax or Tartare de Saumon – Fresh salmon cured or finely chopped, usually served as an appetizer.
- Huitres (Oysters) – Especially around winter months, best enjoyed at seafood counters like Le Bar à Huîtres or open markets.
- Brandade de Morue – Creamy, comforting salt-cod purée with olive oil and garlic.
