Thailand: Must-Try Dishes

- Pad Thai- Experience the exquisite blend of sweet, sour, and savoury notes that dance on your palate as skilled street vendors expertly toss wok-fried rice noodles with succulent shrimp, tender chicken, or crispy tofu.
- Khanom Bueang (Crispy Crepes): These delicate sweet or savory crepes come filled with various ingredients (choose vegetarian options or the sweet ones- coconut cream, or meringue). They offer a delightful textural contrast between the crisp exterior and the soft, flavorful filling.
- Mango Sticky Rice with Coconut Cream (Khao Neow Mamuang): This classic Thai dessert features perfectly ripe mango served with sticky rice cooked in coconut milk and often drizzled with a sweet coconut cream sauce. It's a simple yet satisfying way to end a meal.
- Roti Gluay or fried banana pancakes is one of the most delicious street food in Bangkok- the warm, crispy pancakes filled with slices of ripe banana, drizzled with condensed milk and chocolate sauce are a sweet treat that you'll love. Sukhumvit Soi 38 and Soi Rangnam are the best places to taste Fried Banana Pancakes
- Miang Kam: This bite-sized northern Thai snack features betel leaves filled with a flavorful mixture of chopped nuts, dried shrimp, ginger, and other ingredients. It's a fresh and healthy option with a complex flavor profile.
- Som Tam. This spicy papaya salad is a dish made with shredded green papaya, fiery chillies, dried shrimp, tomatoes, crunchy peanuts and umami fish sauce.
- Thai Green Curry is a staple in Thailand- ask for the vegetarian version.
- Cha Yen – Thai Tea. The vibrant orange hue is matched by the robust flavour of black tea infused with aromatic spices, vanilla, and orange blossom.
- Coconut Ice Cream (I-dtim Mat Phrao): Tropical Temptation- Served in a coconut shell, this creamy delight is crowned with an array of toppings, from crunchy roasted peanuts to sweet corn and sticky rice.

Souvenir Shopping Guide- Thailand

What to Buy and from where

- Fruit snacks, especially dried tropical fruits, are a favorite. Supermarkets across Thailand stock them, and the brand Kunna is especially well-known.
- Another light and fun gift is instant noodles, particularly the famous Tom Yum noodles from Mama, which can also be picked up at any supermarket.
- For food lovers who enjoy cooking, Thai spices like crushed chili, coriander seeds, nutmeg, cloves, cinnamon, star anise, prickly ash, and long pepper are widely available. You'll find them at supermarkets, but also at the Chatuchak Weekend Market, which is a treasure trove for authentic local condiments.
- Snackers will also love crispy seaweed, best found at Siam Paragon's shopping centre or in supermarkets, and exotic flavored potato chips (like lobster or spicy seafood) that are easy to grab from any grocery store. Don't miss durian chips either—uniquely Thai and available in most supermarkets.
- If you'd like something sweet, check out bakery goodies. Portuguese desserts, mooncakes, pies, mochis, and Japanese dorayaki are available at places like Thai Baang Bakery, Numero Uno, The Mandarin Oriental Shop, Konnichipan, Panree Bakery, Paul, Veganerie Soul, Holi Artisan Bakery, and Amantee Bakery. Even convenience stores like 7-Eleven have some fun local snacks to try.
- For those who enjoy a drink, Thai alcohol makes a memorable gift. Local favorites include SangSom Rum, Mekhong Whiskey, Hong Thong Whiskey, LaoKhao Whiskey, and Sang Thip Whiskey. These are best bought at large supermarket chains such as Tops, Big C, or Rimping. If you want something different, look for bottles from Siam Winery.
- Thailand is also well-known for its spa and wellness products. A good place to start is Bath & Bloom at CentralWorld on Rama I Road, which has beautifully packaged spa essentials. Thai coconut oil products can be picked up at Chatuchak Weekend Market, and organic herbal products like roll-on pain relief, cough pills, and natural mosquito repellents are available at supermarkets and drugstores nationwide.
- If you're looking for keepsakes, you can't go wrong with handmade bags from NaRaYa at Siam Paragon. Thai silk is another iconic souvenir; you'll find premium silk at the Jim Thompson House or more affordable options at Exotic Thai (Siam Paragon) and China World Fabric Outlet in Chinatown.
- For elegant gifts, Benjarong porcelain can be found at Chatuchak Weekend Market or Siam Paragon Mall. If you prefer traditional home items, handicrafts like cushion covers, baskets, wooden décor, and bamboo mats are plentiful at Chatuchak and Chinatown.

- Jewelry seekers should explore silver pieces, often sold at Chatuchak Weekend Market and Khao San Road, while something more unique like mother-of-pearl spoons can also be picked up at Chatuchak. Finally, for a truly artistic memento, look out for soap carvings—delicately carved and colorful—at Chiang Mai's Sunday Night Walking Street Market.

Cultural Etiquette & Useful Local Phrases- Thailand

1. The Wai Greeting 🙏

- Thais greet each other with a slight bow and palms pressed together.
- Return the gesture if offered; it shows respect.

2. Respect for the Monarchy 👑

- The King and Royal Family are deeply revered.
- Avoid negative remarks, jokes, or disrespectful behavior related to the monarchy.

3. Temples & Sacred Sites 🏛️

- Dress modestly: shoulders and knees covered.
- Remove shoes before entering temple buildings.
- Don't point your feet at Buddha statues or sit higher than a monk.

4. General Manners 😊

- Keep calm and smile—anger is frowned upon.
- Avoid public displays of affection (especially outside touristy spots).
- Don't touch people's heads (considered the most sacred part of the body).

5. Dining Etiquette 🍴

- The fork is used to push food onto the spoon (main eating utensil).

6. Feet & Shoes 🦶

- Feet are considered "unclean." Don't point them at people, shrines, or images of Buddha.
- Remove shoes before entering homes and some shops.

Packing List (Mid August)

Essentials

- Light, breathable clothes – cotton/linen shirts, t-shirts, shorts
- Quick-dry outfits – for humidity & sudden rain showers
- Long pants / maxi skirts – for temple visits (knees covered)
- Light jacket or cardigan – for cool evenings or strong AC indoors
- Swimwear – beaches, islands, hotel pools
- Cover-up / sarong – useful for both beach & modesty in temples
- Light rain jacket or poncho – essential during monsoon
- Comfortable walking shoes/sandals – ideally waterproof
- Flip-flops – for beaches and casual wear

Essential and Personal Items

- Sunscreen (reef-safe) – UV index is high even on cloudy days
- Insect repellent (with DEET or natural citronella) – mosquitos are active in August
- After-bite lotion / aloe vera gel – for bites or sunburns
- Hand sanitizer & wet wipes – useful at street markets
- Basic first-aid kit – plasters, motion sickness pills, painkillers
- Prescription meds – carry enough for your trip
- Universal travel adapter – Thailand uses Type A, B, C, and O (mostly 220V)

Tip for August: Pack light but with backups—humidity makes clothes take longer to dry, and rains can drench you quickly.

Personal Safety & Emergency Contacts

General Safety Tips:

1. Stay alert in crowded areas – pickpocketing can occur in markets, night bazaars, buses, and tourist hotspots.
2. Respect local laws & customs – e.g., no disrespect towards the Thai Royal Family (strict laws).
3. Use trusted transport – opt for Grab (ride-hailing app) or licensed taxis; avoid unmetered cabs.
4. Secure your belongings – keep passport, cash, and valuables in a hotel safe or money belt.
5. Drink responsibly – avoid accepting drinks from strangers in bars/clubs.
6. Beach & water safety – obey warning flags, as currents can be strong during monsoon (August).
7. Stay hydrated – Thailand is hot & humid; carry water and wear sunscreen.

Common Scams and Frauds:

1. Gem Scam – “friendly” locals lure you to a gem shop claiming a great deal; gems are overpriced & low quality.
2. Tuk-Tuk / Taxi Scams – drivers refusing meters or offering cheap all-day tours (usually end at commission shops).
3. Jet Ski Scam – rental operators falsely claim you damaged their jet ski; avoid or use reputable shops with photos taken before renting.
4. Fake Tour Operators for day trips – overly cheap tours may be fake or cut corners; book through reliable agencies.
5. Closed Attraction Scam – someone tells you a temple/attraction is “closed” and redirects you to shops.
6. ATM Fraud – use ATMs attached to banks; skimming devices may be used at standalone ATMs.
