Cultural Do's & Don'ts in Vietnam

Understanding local etiquette will help you connect better and avoid unintentional offense.

Do's

- Dress modestly when visiting temples & pagodas (covered shoulders & knees)
 - Remove footwear before entering temples and some shops
 - Use both hands when giving or receiving something (especially money)
 - Smile often — it goes a long way in Vietnamese culture
 - Ask permission before photographing people, especially monks or children
 - Respect elders — age is deeply respected in Vietnamese society

Don'ts

- Don't touch anyone's head (especially children)
 - Don't point feet toward people or religious objects
 - Avoid public displays of anger or confrontation
 - Don't raise your voice — calm communication is valued
 - Avoid discussing politics or war history casually

Dining Etiquette

- Don't stick chopsticks upright in a bowl (resembles funeral rituals)
 - For vegetarians, always say “Ăn chay” and “Không nước mắm”
 - Tipping is not mandatory but appreciated in tourist settings

Temple Etiquette

- Speak softly
 - Walk clockwise around altars
 - Donations are optional — place them gently in boxes

General Behaviour

- Bargaining is common in markets, but always be polite
- Patience is appreciated — things move at a relaxed pace
